GREEN-GOODS MEN GOT A TIP

POLICE LOOKING FOR WESTERN UNION SUPERINTENDENT.

Adams Refused to Tell Who Received Their Telegrams—Telegraph Operator Arrested—Trap Bidn't Work. Alfred Kaiser, a Western Union operator

ed at the Claremont station of the ey Central, was arrested by Detective McNally yesterday afternoon on a warrant worn out by Chief of Police Murphy of Jersey City charging him with alding green-goods men. The Chief also got from Police lustice Hoos a warrant for Charles P. Adams, superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company's lines along the Central Railroad. Adams was not found by the police yesterday, but Murphy expects that he will turn up in the First Criminal Court this morning.

The Chief has been aware for some time that green-goods operators who made their headquarters in this city directed "come-ons" to whom they had sent alluring circulars to use only the Western Union lines in telegraphing and to address their messages to Greenville and Claremont. spent two weeks about the telegraph offices, but saw nothing of greends men. This led the Chief to believe that their messages have been forwarded Rufus H. Minot of Northfield, Mass. wrote to Chief Murphy on June 10 that some one had sent him a circular offering him one, five and ten-dollar bills which couldn't be detected from genuine money. He was instructed not to waste time writing letters in the event of a desire to do businees, but to telegraph this message, using the Western Union wires only: "William A. Gray, Claremont, N. J.: Kenman says No. 291 is right. Answer at once. R. H.

Chief Murphy wrote to Minot to send the despatch to Claremont and notify him of further developments. They came in the shape of a price list and a good one-dollar bill as a sample. Minot also got a letter instructing him to go to the Astor House on reaching this city, register under his real name, giving Boston as his residence and stick close to his room until somebody came after him. He was to give this password, Kenman, to this somebody and accompany him to the Third avenue office, where wealth would be awaiting him.

avenue office, where wealth would be awaiting him.

On June 27 Chief Murphy wrote Minot to send this despatch on July 15: "William A. Gray, 1924 Third avenue, New York city. Don't like this place. Will be in telegraph office, Claremont, at 4 o'clock on Wednesday, July 17. Will have your letter in my hand with 291 on envelope. R. H. M."

Two days later Minot potified the Chief.

R. H. M."

Two days later Minot notified the Chief that the green-goods men didn't like the proposed programme and had informed him that they didn't do business at Claremont but at their office. Minot agreed to telegraph from Northfield that he would be at the Astor House on Friday last and Capt. Titus, at the request of Chief Murphy, had a detective on hand to impersonate him but the green-goods men had evidently been tipped off and were not on hand to do business.

dently been tipped off and were not on hand to do business. Chief Murphy was anxious to ascertain if the New Jersey telegraph operators were in collusion with "William A. Gray" and his gang. Acting Inspector McKaig went to the operator at Claremont and told him he would be arrested if he didn't tell what became of Gray's telegrams. A similar visit was made on last Friday to Supt. Adams by Capts. Cox and Nugent, but Adams refused all information, saying he would report later after notifying his superiors.

At 1 o'clock that day Adams gave the captains this message. "Mr. Adams, we cannot disclose any information in regard to our business except under the due process of law." He would not tell from whom it had been received and referred the callers to G. H. Fearrons, general attorney of the company, at 195 Broadway.

Chief Murphy telephoned an account of the circumstances to Mr. Fearrons and said that the information desired would assist the police in the capture of greengods men. The lawyer told him that the laws under which the company was incorporated prevented the company's employees from making public its business. He promised to look up the law further. That afternoon Titus's man had his visit at the Astor House for nothing.

Chief Murphy says that the green-goods men have been using other Western Union offices along the Central, one "I. W. Ellis," receiving despatches from "come-ons" at the Greenville station. But none of his sleuths has been able to catch any of them.

GREEN SLEUTHS GET FULL PAY. Although Col. Murphy Said, for the Sake of Peace, They Wouldn't.

There was another out burst of dissatisfaction among the policemen of the Headquarters squad yesterday over Commissioner Murphy's recent action in making three policemen who had had no experience as detectives into detective sergeants This was the result of the discovery that the three green sleuths were getting the full pay of detective sergeants, notwithstanding Col. Murphy's statement that they would receive less.

When the appointments were announced on July 11 the men of the Headquarters squad over whose heads the promotions had been made did not conceal the fact that they considered that Col. Murphy had broken faith with them. They recalled a little speech which he had made to them soon after he became head of the Police Department in the course of which "I wish to say that under my admin-istration no man will be made a detective sergeant unless he earns the promotion and unless he is recommended by the chief of the bureau. I will bring no man here to be promoted over the heads of men have endeavored to do their duty in this office."

In this office."

The three men whose advancement caused this hard feeling against Commissioner Murphy three weeks ago were William J. Peabody, a fifth grade policeman, with a salary of $900 a year, in the West Thirty-seventh street squad; John J. Roach, who had been doing messenger duty in the Mayor's office, and Roundsman Newhall Dempsey, whose police activity Newhall Dempsey, whose police activity up to the time he became a sleuth had conisted chiefly of running errands for Deputy missioner Devery. There was so much grumbling when these three men blossomed out as detective sergeants that Commissioner Murphy said that Peabody, Roach and Der would not get detective sergeants' pay, which is practically $2,000 a year.

But it was learned yesterday that for the twenty-one days of July which they served after their promotion the three received $112.76 each. That is at the rate of $5.38 a day, which is the daily pay of a $2,000-a,very detective sergeant. $2,000-a-year detective sergeant after his eleven-cent assessment for the pension fund has been deducted.

After getting these payroll statistics the reporter went to Col. Murphy again, and asked for further explanations of the same case. He declared that he had never said that Peabody, Roach and Dempsey were not to get full pay.

Incidentally he remarked that hereafter he will see only one reporter at a time.

at Play in Cincinnati. CINCINNATI, Aug. 5 .- Chief of Police Joseph Pugh of Covington, Ky., strolled ast night into the saloon of the Bauer prothers at Longworth street and Central evenue, for many years conducted by George B. Cox, now the noted Republican boss. He had a roll of money and an idea he could win at craps. His first bet was for $100. He lost. Pugh bet $50 the next time and lost. Then he gambled feverishly and eventually lost $1,100. Pugh was reaching down in his pocket to pay was reaching down in his pocket to pay a one-hundred-dollar bet when a turn on the table netted him that amount. Immediately his luck turned. From that time on until morning he won almost successively and at daylight he cashed in $1,900. Pugh was only an even thousand to the good, but those who advertise the game and draw patrons spread it along Vine street that he had won thousands. Before Pugh's advent a Pittsburg man lost $500 in a few minutes. Pugh is a racehorse owner and has had fair success on the turf.

The crap game at Longworth street and Central avenue is now credited with being the biggest in the United States. Those who play only a dollar on the turn of the dice are deemed "pikers" by the sports.

FALL RIVER POOL DISSOLVES.

Mill Selling Committee Goes Out of Existence Because of Dissatisfaction. FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 5.-The Fall River Selling Committee, which has had charge of disposing of the product of about twenty-five of the mills since October, 1890, was dissolved to-day. There has been dissension within a few weeks and four corporations withdrew, thinking that the committee had outlived its usefulness in controlling the product. Other withdrawals were threatened and the step taken was deemed advisable by those still in the pool.

This committee was organized originally at the time when a trust was endeavoring to secure options on local mill property. Immediately after the action to-day a paper was circulated among mill treasurers, seeking to bring about a re-duction of wages to go into effect on Sept. 3. It is not yet known publicly how many signatures have been obtained to this paper.

posed Electric Railroad -Indication That There Is More in the New Project Than a Suburban Parallel Line. A hearing on the application of the New York and Port Chester Railroad Company for a permit to lay a four-track electric railroad from 132d street and the East River to Port Chester, which was scheduled for yesterday's meeting of the State Rallroad Commissioners at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, was postponed until Sept. 9, owing to objection on the part of the opponents of the scheme to the form of the advertiesment for the hearing. The whole day was spent in an argument on this point.

The Commissioners present were Col. George W. Dunn, Ashley W. Cole and Frank M. Baker. Among those present to urge the granting of the permit were Joseph S. Wood of the Mount Vernon Board of Trade, Joseph L. Wells of the North Side Board of Trade in The Bronx, Garrett Sandford of the Second Ward Improve-ment Association of Mount Vernon, Frank N. Glover of the Williamsbridge Improvement Association, Joseph Thompson of the Van Nest Property Owners' Association, E. A. Howland of the Mount Vernon Suburban Land Company, H. E. Caldwell of the New Rochelle Board of Trade, H. W. York, representing taxpayers of West-chester county, W. W. Niles of the Taxpayers' Alliance of The Bronz, A. H. Morris of the Morris Park Racing Association, . R. Bull of the Harrison Board of Trade and W. C. Trull, representing John B. McDonald and the Rapid Transit Subway

Those who appeared to oppose the new road were the legal representatives of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, the Union Trolley Line, the New York and Westchester, the New York and Stamford and the Boston and Albany railroads, the plans of all of which corporations, it is said, may be interfered with by the building of the new line.

Application for an adjournment until September was made by the attorneys of the opposing corporations as soon as the session opened, first, because it was inconvenient to go on at this time owing to the absence of many railroad men in Europe and then, on the ground that the advertisement was defective. The defect consisted in the omission of the name of Messmore Kendall from the list of shareholders. This, argued the opposing attorneys, vitiated the advertisement because the large argument of the shareholders. cause the law says that "an exact copy of the articles of incorporation" shall be included in the advertisement. The promoters of the enterprise declare it to be their intention to go to work within two months of the granting of the permit and to build an electric road from 132d street through Port Morris, Mount Vernon, Pelham Manor, Larchmont, Orienta, Mamaroneck and Rye to Port Chester. This parallels the New Haven road and through the connection with the Rapid Transit tunnel on the East Side, it will make it possible to get the Westchester people to the City Hall more quickly than the steam roads can now do it. The guarantee is also made that the fare will be much less. This is the reason why the Westchester This is the reason why the Westchester county people are all in favor of the road, but they are inclined to insist on a clause permit making the construction read compulsory within a given road compulsory within a given They have had so many roads on paper that they want a guarantee that the franchise is not being obtained to sell out. For this reason the commuters are particularly anxious to find out who is behind the scheme. Because the Rapid Transit contractor is in favor of it there is a suscontractor is in favor of it there is a sus-picion in some quarters that the same financial forces which have made possible the completion of the tunnel enterprise are aiding this. Run in conjunction with the tunnel the new road would furnish a way to escape the Park avenue tunnel and would doubtless hurt the suburban business of the New Haven road, to say nothing of interfering with any scheme that that road might have for an all-trolley route from this city to Boston. The aproute from this city to Boston. The ap-pearance of a legal representative of the Boston and Albany road at the hearing was taken to indicate that the interest shown by the steam railroads has more behind it than interference with their passenger busi-ness just between here and Port Chester. FISH PEDLERS ACCUSE ENGEL. Say He Sets the Police on Them Because They Vote Republic

ACKER, MERRALL & CONDIT, AND METROPOLITAN TOBACCO CO., DISTRIBUTORS.

Benefactor

Led by J. P. Solomon, an editor, and A Banowich, most of the fish pedlers of the Eighth Assembly district called on Acting Mayor Guggenheimer yesterday and told him that they were ill treated by the police. All the fish pedlers are admirers of Assemblyman Charles Adler, who is a Republican, and they have incurred the enmity of Councilman Martin Engel, who, they say, has been persecuting them through the police in the hope that by joining Tammany Hall they would buy the right to enjoy the benefits for which they pay a license fee to the city.

On the boundary line of the Eighth and Twelfth districts the difference between the treatment of the pedlers in the two districts is very noticeable. They are not hounded in the Twelfth, of which City Clerk Scully is the leader, and they are per-mitted to carry on their business unmomitted to carry on their business unmolested and unannoyed.

The pediers told Mr. Guggenheimer that all they wanted was a fair chance to earn their fiving. Police Captain Walsh said that the pediers were being treated as the Board of Health ordered, and that when they obeyed the law they were not molested.

President Guggenhelmer said that if the pediers were obeying the law they would be protected and that he would see to it;
but that if they were not he would not help them.
